Dear Visitors!

Modern zoos like the Schönbrunn Zoo are no longer merely for entertainment. Instead they have become educational centers, they are show-places for teaching and research, and invaluable partners for diverse nature and species conservation projects. Such projects benefit not only from the knowledge and experience of zoologists, veterinarians, and keepers, but also from the threatened animal species carefully bred in the scope of international zoo network programs. With your help, zoos can also provide financial support to projects devoted to nature and species conservation. While modern zoos have taken on this task on their own, they are also obligated to do so under the Austrian Animal Protection Act and the EU Zoo Directive.

With your admission fee, but above all through your interest in our animals and our work, you are supporting our efforts on behalf of nature and species conservation.

We thank you for doing so!

Dr. Dagmar Schratter

Schönbrunner Tiergarten GmbH

Society of the Friends of Schönbrunn Zoo
Since 1992, the Society has supported the projects of the Schönbrunn Zoo in a great and grandiose manner.

Zoo makes fun!
In 1977, the "Zoo School" was founded at Schönbrunn. It offers a great variety of zoo-educational programmes for the young and the old. Information: +43-1-877 92 94-500
At the I Hietzinger Gate cashier's office, you can obtain information about the adopt-an-animal programme, annual tickets, etc.

VISITORS' RULES

The Schönbrunn Zoo, the world's oldest zoo, provides its visitors an insight into some of the world's most fascinating fauna and recreation, all in a unique environment, all the year round. For the benefit of the animals and the visitors, the following rules must be observed:

- For safety reasons, children aged under 14 must be accompanied by an adult. Adults are responsible for their children!
- All our animals enjoy a well-balanced diet that suits their needs and behaviour. In order to guarantee healthy animals and to avoid teaching them to be "beggars", feeding is strictly forbidden throughout the zoo.
- Climbing over barriers or reaching into the enclosures poses a threat to both animals and visitors and is therefore strictly forbidden.
- Animals also need their breaks. Please do not try to attract the animals' attention with loud calls, knocking on the glass, etc. Radios and similar devices must be turned off; music and loud noise are not allowed.
- We welcome people who wish to film or take pictures for private purposes. Commercial photography or filming requires permission from the management. Please note the ban on flashes in certain buildings.
- Walking on the grass and bringing dogs or other pets into the palace gardens, including the zoo, is forbidden.
- The use of bicycles, roller skates, inline skates, skateboards, scooters, etc. is not permitted. The same holds true for ball games, frisbee throwing and the like.
- Please help keep the zoo clean and use the provided bins.
- The instructions of the zoo staff must be obeyed.
- The zoo staff is authorized to expel visitors who do not obey the rules from the zoo.
- Keep and show your admission ticket upon request. The ticket becomes invalid once you leave the zoo.
- Please note the zoo's closing hours, which are posted at the entrances and announced over the loudspeaker, because the palace gardens close their doors shortly thereafter.

We thank you for your understanding and wish you a pleasant stay at Schönbrunn Zoo.
